Reckless Autoists

At four o'clock Sunday morning the family of Christian Shatz, at the toll-gate between here and Florin, was awakened by a loud crash. Upon investigating he discovered that a touring car had struck the gate which was closed, broke it into splinters, demolished his large lamp, broke his yard fence and at the same time put the buzz machine out of service for a short time.

An Auto Collision

On Sunday two large touring automobiles had a head-on collision at the culvert, half a mile west of Florin. Each was going in the opposite direction and in rounding the sharp curve, both were on the outside and a wreck occurred. One machine ran partly through the fence, whereby it was slightly damaged but all the occupants escaped injury.
